Walt's Walk n Talk

Need some help and encouragement? Take a Walk with Walt and discover those little nuggets of truths and life-applications for your online business.

These short, poignant, anecdotal, video episodes are taken from my (occasionally) daily walk around my neighborhood here in north Thailand. However, since of them are quite a distance away, and I'm not Forest Gump, I may have taken a plane, train, or automobile. (Buffalo, horse and carriage, and boat props were all borrowed!)

Elvis appears courtesy of his new record label, D.M.C. (Dead Man Crooning), and I really didn't push the fat Thai kid off the bridge in Video #8!

For the mature of heart in our community and your enjoyment only!

The following video comes from a recent trip I made to Bangladesh to review the condition of a Tilapia Fish Farm and Hatchery.

This hatchery, while in operation for many years, has been run down and neglected with little or no upkeep or investment into facilities, equipment and staff.

Since I'm experienced in Tilapia Fish care and Hatchery operations, I went to assess the needs of the farm and hatchery, the staff experience level and readiness for ongoing operations.

The result of this trip has been the return of this farm to operational and profitable levels of competence and quality.

While this has little to do with online marketing, yet this is a part of my life and these workers and men are my friends.

They are hard workers and work hard to carve out a niche to support their families and to maintain their business under very limited and poor conditions.
